

DiSC Study Guide

Plot the groups DiSC score in the box (You may use High, Medium, and Low)

Name
D i
S
C

What do you notice about the DiSC configuration of your group?

THE "D"

- What behaviors typically alert you to know you are dealing with a "D"?
- What are the strengths of a "D" (professionally, relationally, or personally)?
(See chart)
- What are some of the corresponding challenges of a "D"?
- How can these challenges be compensated for?
- How has these strengths of challenges been observed in your group so far?
- How have you had to change considering your "D" or with those around you?

THE "I"

- What behaviors typically alert you to know you are dealing with an "i"?
- What are the strengths of an "i" (professionally, relationally, or personally)?
(See chart)
- What are some of the corresponding challenges of an "i"?
- How can these challenges be compensated for?
- How has these strengths of challenges been observed in your group so far?
- How have you had to change considering your "i" or with those around you?

THE "C"

- What behaviors typically alert you to know you are dealing with a "C"?
- What are the strengths of a "C" (professionally, relationally, or personally)?
(See chart)

- What are some of the corresponding challenges of a "C"?
- How can these challenges be compensated for?
- How has these strengths of challenges been observed in your group so far?
- How have you had to change considering your "C" or with those around you?

THE "S"

- What behaviors typically alert you to know you are dealing with a "S"?
- What are the strengths of a "S" (professionally, relationally, or personally)?
(See chart)
- What are some of the corresponding challenges of a "S"?
- How can these challenges be compensated for?
- How has these strengths of challenges been observed in your group so far?

- How have you had to change considering your "S" or with those around you?

developed by Gregory Wiens